

ROY D. MERRITT FOR U. S. PRESIDENT
CAMPAIGN SPEECH # 10

- During his campaign for the presidency in 1959, John F. Kennedy, the last “good” Democrat, posed this question to the nation:

“Ask not what your country can do for you, but ask what you can do for your country.”

- Today, and over the many years since then, many new immigrants to the U. S. A. have instead been asking a lot of totally different questions like the following:

- (1) What can you---AMERICA---do for me, me, me?
- (2) Can you make me rich?
- (3) Can you make my 10 children rich?
- (4) Can you provide a good life for my family?
- (5) Will you remake your country for me?
- (6) Will you let me speak my own language?
- (7) Will you NOT have any requirements of citizenship?
- (8) Will you make me compete with your citizens born in your country?
- (9) Will you give me special rights and privileges?
- (10) Will you give me affirmative action? preferences in employment?
- (11) Will you treat me special---as a minority?
- (12) Will you let me live the way I want to live?
- (13) Will you make me obey your laws?
- (14) Will you make me stand for my work?
- (15) Will you let me scam and cheat people for as much money as I can get out of them?
- (16) Can you provide a free college education for my children?
- (17) Can you provide welfare for me and my children? Food stamps?
- (18) Can you provide free medical care for my family?
- (19) Will you give me and my children cell phones to look for work?
- (20) Will you make me work at all to earn a living?
- (21) Will I have to be a productive citizen? Or, can I just be a loafer, bum, low-life, scumbag, etc.?
- (22) Do I have to pick up after myself, or can I just scatter trash, garbage, etc. all around like I did in my home country? Can I be a slob?
- (23) Can I just sit around all day and relax while you provide a living for me?
- (24) Can I have fun being a criminal, vandal, and terrorist and not pay for my actions?

• Etc.

• Etc.
